Improvement plan (Department of Musical Arts) Faculty of Fine Arts 2021–2022

The improvement plan included the most important measures that the music arts department seeks to achieve in the future to overcome the weaknesses contained in the self–assessment criteria and within a time horizon not exceeding the academic years (2021–2022) and(2022–2023), as follows:

The Department of musical arts achieves communication with other corresponding faculties through the participation of its professors in the discussion committees of a number of students (PhD/ Master) outside the governorates, as represented in the colleges of Fine Arts, the Department of musical arts (Baghdad/, Basra, Erbil), and professors and students of the department also participated in a number of music festivals held in the province, including (the events of the Arabian Gulf session) held in Basra, an alternative strategy was developed to limit the spread of the corona epidemic through activating electronic lessons and holding seminars (seminars) and hosting a number of Basra city media from academics. The Department of musical arts seeks to activate an advisory office in the college to achieve financial returns that benefit the department and the College in general, the department needs to provide modern educational requirements such as smart screens and computers (laptops) and to establish a special computer laboratory for its students and print methodological books, especially in the evening study and to more foreign and Arab to provide the college library with everything new. And the need of college professors to questionnaires related to measuring the satisfaction of teachers of the Department of musical arts about the management of the department in particular and the College in general. The department also seeks to include its students in the training system in primary and secondary schools and timings according to international and Arab standards, especially in ancient and sober universities, and to build bridges of educational, knowledge and applied communication with other universities (Arab and local). The department is working to encourage its professors to participate in training conferences and workshops that develop their theoretical and practical teaching skills and raise the scientific level in line with the courses of those universities, in addition to activating cognitive development to avoid weakness in the theoretical and practical side of some methodological subjects such as solo playing and art criticism and to more scientific research related to teaching methods and modern teaching methods and techniques.

The Department of musical arts seeks to activate an annual plan to follow up scientific research and cooperation with corresponding colleges, especially international foreign colleges and conclude agreements with well-established international universities as well as the exchange of information between the professors of the department and the professors of those colleges and the publication of more research in international repositories (Scopas- To work on this, the department needs an announced and integrated plan to send teachers inside and outside Iraq and develop a transparent annual plan that achieves justice and equality for all staff according to the need of the department and the exact specialization and activate the visits of teachers to Iraqi, Arab and international universities, the Department of musical arts will develop an explanatory map of theory and practice as well as billboards to familiarize the student with the steps of admission and postponement Hosting, exam instructions and discipline...His administration seeks to achieve this next year by allocating a financial budget for the maintenance and rehabilitation of health facilities and finding sufficient spaces for practical training for his students. The management of the Department of musical arts will organize the tasks and duties assigned to each employee and to recruit cadres of graduates (employees) to work within the department and find an annual strategic plan to manage its financial resources, if any, through a financial control mechanism related to the Department's musical works in line with the Department's vision and educational mission in the event of marketing the internal departments belonging to the department from the Iraqi provinces, and from In order to activate extra-curricular activities, the department works in coordination with the student activities unit at the college to involve a number of students in events and activities held inside and outside the college, and also works to activate its own media page within the main page to inform the Faculty of Fine Arts and document the biographies of its faculty members to communicate with graduate students through the creation of channels within social networking sites (WhatsApp, Facebook and Telegram...) And strive to follow up their artistic works regularly and
